

Joe Dery

Candidate

Graduate Certificate Business Analytics

Master of Science Marketing Analytics

Business Analyst at:

In April 2011, Joseph became a Business Analyst for New Hampshire-based data analytics firm Calexus Solutions. Here, Joseph brings his passions to life by invoking his advanced business analytic skill-set in a bustling environment that requires quick, strategic thinking and effective written communication with top executives of multi-million and multi-billion dollar companies. At this time, Joseph's daily responsibilities at Calexus extend to databases in excess of 20 terabytes.

This fall, Joseph will complete his graduate studies with a part-time evening schedule focusing on SQL training, methods of database maintenance, and time series analysis with R. It is his hope to attend Bentley University's PhD program--focusing in Business Analytics--in the fall of 2013.

Guangying Hua

PhD in Business,

Specialization in Business

Analytics Statistician at:

Guangying received her PhD degree in Business Analytics from Bentley this May. She holds a B.S. and M.S. in Management Information Systems from Tianjin University, China. At present, she is a Statistician in the Analytic Consulting Group at Epsilon. Her responsibilities include building predictive models and providing marketing insights for clients across different industries.

Prior to joining Epsilon, Guangying worked as a Software Engineer and Data Analyst for the China Aviation Accounting Center, providing business intelligence and data analysis for all airline companies in China. While studying at Bentley, she worked as a Research Assistant for Bentley's Center for Quantitative Analysis, responsible for data extraction and data analysis for internal and external clients.

I Chen Wu

Candidate

MBA : Concentrations in

Business Analytics/IT

Data Analytics Associate at:

(from 2012)

I Chen is an MBA candidate at Bentley with concentrations in both Business Analytics and Information Systems & Technology. She will begin to hold her position at Deloitte in 2012.

Before coming to Bentley, I Chen was a product manager in the telecommunication industry and beauty industry. She likes dealing with numbers and data and enjoys the process of analyzing underlying data patterns to provide business solutions for her company. Every industry has data that needs analysis, resulting in a high level of mobility and demand for graduates. While working toward her MBA, I Chen has also enjoyed the opportunities to travel and take in theater performances on Broadway.